Pop Jazz Saxophonist Jessie J Tours with Michael Bolton

"Jazz Sensibilities...Stand Out..." - Jazz Times Magazine

St. Louis, MO – May 9, 2007

Coming off studio projects with Paul Brown, Norman Brown and Blake Aaron, pop jazz artist Jessie J is touring with Michael Bolton playing sax and singing backup vocals at select major cities across the nation.

At 26, Jessie has already worked professionally with the World's most popular artists including Jessica Simpson, Michael Buble, Burt Bacharach and the Temptations.

Jessy's extreme desire and ambitions have placed her on the "fast track" to success. She has recently finished a smooth jazz project produced by the "Baby Face of Smooth Jazz", Paul Brown and was hand selected by musical genius Paquito D'Rivera to perform alongside him at Carnegie Hall for an event featuring "tomorrows star musicians". Not only have these two multiple Grammy award-winning artists sung her praise, she is currently being hailed as "Sexy, irresistible, sensible, the upcoming sax star, soulful, delightful, top notch, fresh, and terrific!", on her latest performance with Paul Brown on his Peak recording debut "White Sand".

Make sure you watch the one others are already talking about...Jessy J.
